LO: To learn and retell the story

During the first week of a new story we spend time immersing the children in it and learning the story to be able to retell it to the best of their ability. The better they know the story the easier it is for them to write about and write their own stories.

Remind yourself of the story and watch it again on:

Your challenge today is to learn the story as well as you can using the story map from last week to help. You can also watch the video of me retelling the story using the story map I posted on the class story on Dojo on Friday. The story map is also on the class webpage.

To help your child, get them to think of actions they can use for the different parts of the story as the actions act as prompts to the children and help remind them of the next part of the story.

Please video your child retelling the story and upload on to their portfolio on class dojo.

I look forward to all your story telling.
