

Thursday 25th February LO: To learn a poem by heart

My video instructions:

<https://www.loom.com/share/5d025618008a46df869767e2f0d1711d>

Starter:

On the copy of the poem below can to tick all the nouns - naming words, circle the adjective - describing word and underline the verbs - action words

Main Activity:

I would like you today to read and re-read and read again the poem and then add some actions to it so that you can recite and step out the poem yourself. Please tick the sheet to show you have done this, or even better, share a video of the finished results.

Barn Owl by Robert Macfarlane:

Below barn owl spreads silence;
All sound crouches to the ground,
Runs for cover, huddles down.
Noise is what Owl hunts,
drops on, stops dead.

Over rushes, across marshes,
Owl hushes -
Will you listen with Owl ears for a while?
Let the wild world's whispers
call you in?
