WALT: Writing a non-chronological report.

Over the next two days, write a report about your made up creature which hatched from the mysterious egg you described yesterday. Include details about its diet, habitat, and life cycle. Use the structure below to help you organise your text. You can write or type this report.

Title: _____
Introduction: _____ _____ _____ _____
Sub-heading: _____ _____
Sub-heading: _____ _____ _____ _____	Fun Fact!
Sub-heading: _____ _____

These are the key features of a NCR:

	Topic title covers the whole subject.		Non-chronological reports use factual language .
	Brief introduction paragraph gives who/what/where overview.		Present tense verbs (unless it is a historical report, then it would be past tense).
	The information is organised into paragraphs .		Technical language may be explained in a glossary.
	Each category has a sub-heading .		Third person makes it impersonal.
	Some information may be in fact boxes or bullet-point lists.		Non-chronological reports have a formal tone .
	Extra details support the main points.		General language , not particular examples.
