

Multi-Clause Sentences

What Is a Complex Sentence?

twinkl

Aim

- I can recognise and use complex (multi-clause) sentences.

Success Criteria

- I can recognise that a complex sentence contains a main (independent) clause and at least one dependent clause.
- I can recognise two types of dependent clause: subordinate clauses and relative clauses.
- I can use 'I SAW A WABUB' to remember some of the main subordinating conjunctions to use in subordinate clauses.
- I can use relative pronouns/relative adverbs to create relative clauses.
- I can write my own complex sentences.

Getting Started

What is a main clause?

A main clause (or it could be called a simple sentence) is a group of words that expresses one complete thought. Every main clause must contain a subject and a verb. They can also be called independent clauses.

Can you spot the subjects and the verbs in these main/independent clauses?

subject

The horse galloped.

verb

Mr Richardson ate some cheese.

Getting Started

What is a complex sentence?

A complex sentence is made up of a main clause and then one or more dependent clauses.

There are two ways of creating dependent clauses:

- by using a subordinating conjunction (e.g. after) to create a subordinate clause, e.g.

The horse galloped after it jumped the fence.

- by adding extra information using a relative clause (Noun, w).

Mr Richardson, who was feeling ravenous, ate some cheese.

Next Steps: Subordinating Conjunctions

Firstly, let's look at creating complex sentences by using subordinate clauses that begin with a subordinating conjunction.

Next Steps: Subordinating Conjunctions

So, how do we use subordinating conjunctions?

Subordinating conjunctions are the first words within a subordinate clause. Subordinate clauses do not make sense on their own (they are dependent) but when they are used with a main clause, they create a complex (multi-clause) sentence.

Subordinate clauses will always have a subject and verb within them, e.g.

a preposition

is not a subordinate clause

Next Steps: Subordinating Conjunctions

Can you spot the subordinate clause and the subordinating conjunction in this complex sentence?

Juvenile penguins are able to swim, although their feathers aren't yet waterproof.

I SAW A WABUB!

Next Steps: Subordinating Conjunctions

Can you spot the subordinate clause and the subordinating conjunction in this complex sentence?

The boy scouts sang around the campfire until it was time for bed.

I SAW A WABUB!

Next Steps: Subordinating Conjunctions

Can you spot the subordinate clause and the subordinating conjunction in this complex sentence?

Hakim could win the talent contest if he improved his juggling skills.

I SAW A WABUB!

Next Steps: Subordinating Conjunctions

In the complex sentences we have looked at so far, the subordinate clause has always come after the main clause but watch...

Although their feathers aren't yet waterproof, juvenile penguins are able to swim.

I SAW A WABUB!

Next Steps: Subordinating Conjunctions

Although their feathers aren't yet waterproof, juvenile penguins are able to swim.

Subordinating conjunctions can also be used as the first word in a complex sentence. When the subordinate clause comes before the main clause, make sure you remember to use a comma to mark where the subordinate clause ends.

I SAW A WABUB!

Next Steps: Subordinating Conjunctions

Can you swap these sentences around so that the subordinate clause comes before the main clause? Don't forget your commas!

Until it was time for bed, the boy scouts sang around the campfire.

If he improved his juggling skills, Hakim could win the talent contest.

I SAW A WABUB!
