Meanwhile / In the meantime

EXAMPLE:

He awoke in a mysterious place that was shrouded in swirling mists. He was confused but as he looked up he saw one of the vast impressive gates of Valhalla, shining with gold. Just then, the gates opened. Chuckling to himself, Biorn happily took his first step and as he did so a beautiful sword appeared in his hand, then a horn full of mead - with each step something new appeared. Biorn was overjoyed.

"Yes," he thought "I have made it!"

Meanwhile, back on Earth, the grateful nuns had discovered Biorn's body, lifted him carefully and buried him with a carved wooden Christian cross.

Back at the gate, Biorn was about to take his final step into Valhalla when the doors slammed shut! Suddenly, a carousel of different gates to heaven appeared and finally stopped at the gates to the Christian heaven. Confused, Biorn looked around - a few sleepy nuns were yawning and just at that moment, all his battle gear disappeared. Then a bright halo appeared above his head and the squeaky gates swung shut behind him.

"No! No! No! AAAARRRRGGGGhhhhhhhhrrrrrrrrrr!" wailed Biorn desperately as he thumped his fists against the cold iron bars.

Despite his efforts, this mighty aged warrior hadn't made it to Valhalla after all.
