

Tuesday 23rd February

LO: Non-chronological report

1) Read this example of a non-chronological report about the UK.

<https://kids.nationalgeographic.com/geography/countries/article/united-kingdom>

2) Find the features from the list below and give an example of each.

	Feature	Example
Structure	Topic title covers the whole subject
	Introduction paragraph gives who, what, where Information organised into paragraphs with subheadings
	Some information may be in fact boxes or bullet-point lists
Grammar and Vocabulary	Factual language Formal tone Technical language
	Present tense
	Third person
	Powerful adjectives and adverbs to entice the reader - Interestingly, ... Curiously,...
	Use of 'generalisers' - many, some, a very few, usually Conjunctions - Furthermore, In addition, Moreover
Punctuation	Commas to make meaning clear

3) Write the beginning of your non-chronological report about South Africa.

- Give it a main title

- How will you engage your reader so they want to read the rest of the text? Try using a rhetorical question in your introduction paragraph.