Values : The value we are focussing on this half term is Respect.

Dear Parent/Carers,

It has been a super first week back in school and it has been really pleasing to see the joy that the children are gaining from the broad curriculum at our school. Due to the strong relationships and the consistent approaches we use across our school, the children have settled very quickly into their new classes where their teachers are expecting them to work hard so they can attain their very best. To support your child/ren with having the best start to their new academic year please encourage and support them to read daily and to practice their number bonds and times tables. Having strong foundations in these areas enables them to be more successful all areas of learning because they will have reduced their cognitive load.

I would also like to welcome all our new Badgers and their parents. I have been very impressed with how the children have settled: separating from their parents, meeting new children and adults and learning about their new classroom environment. It is a reminder to us all about how resilient children can be and when given this independence it supports their development hugely. I know Mrs Balfour has spoken to some parent/carers this week but please do contact us if you have questions at any time.

Maths Day - Wednesday 23rd September

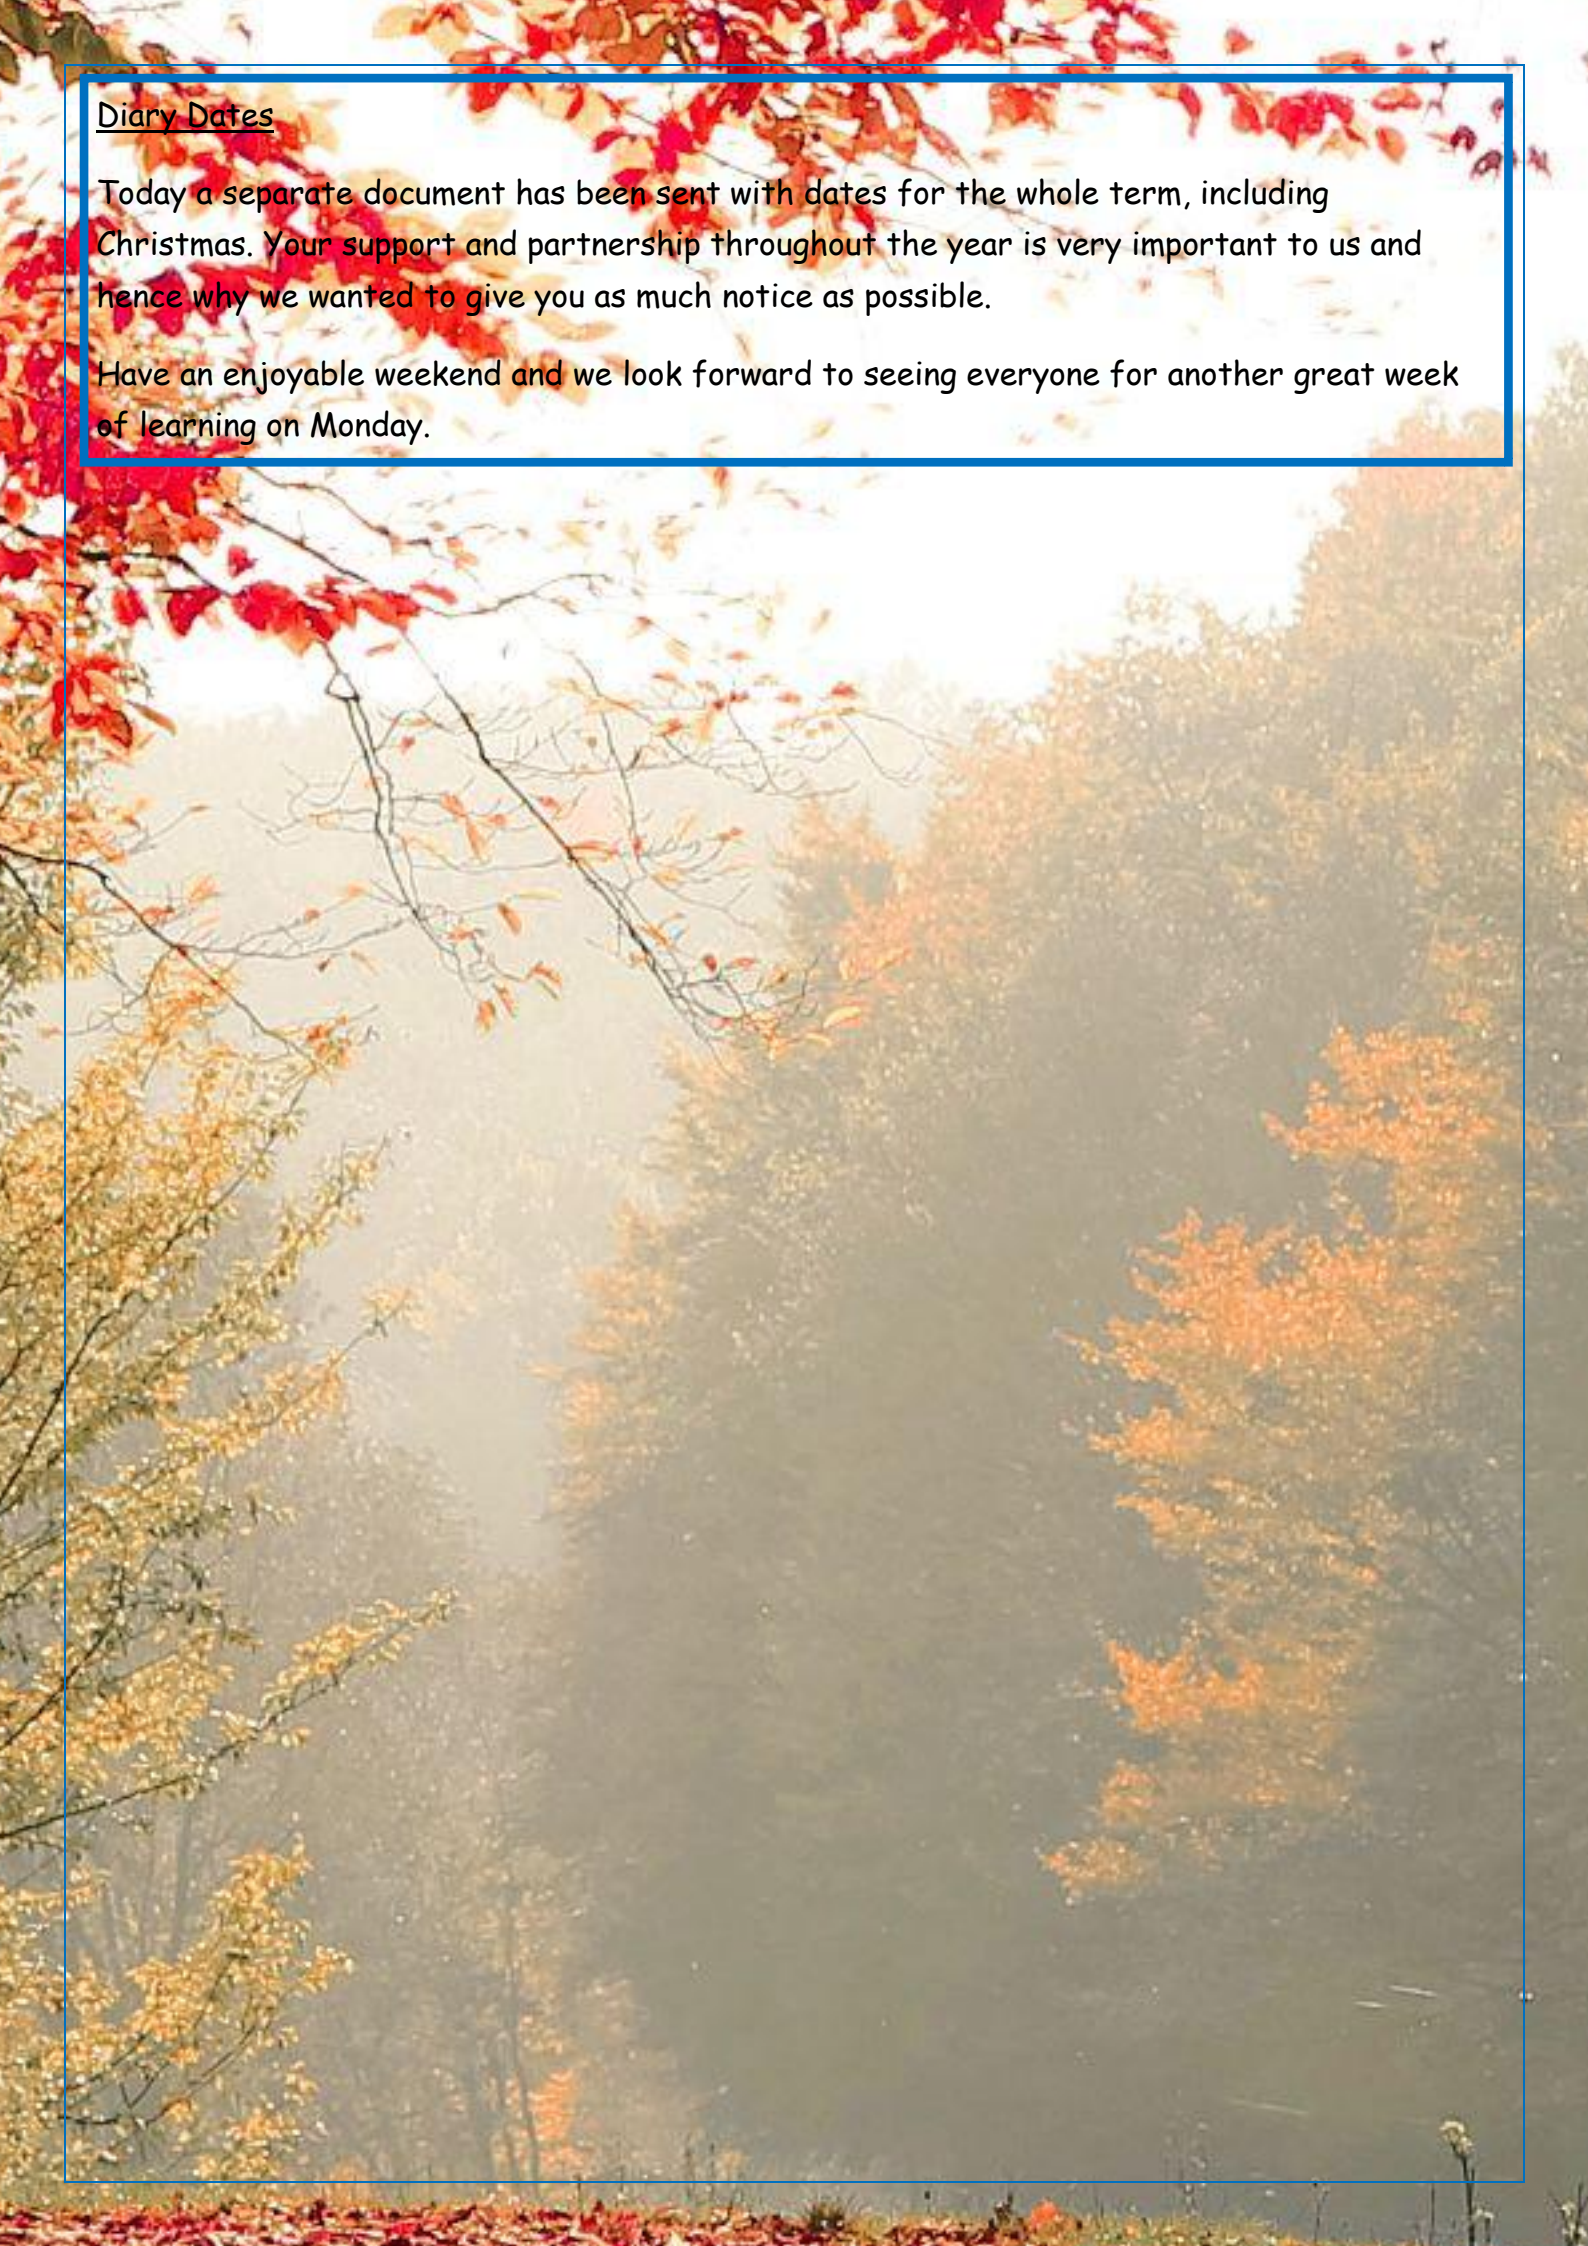

On Wednesday 23rd September we will be holding our annual maths day. Children will take part in a trail and maths learning linked to Exploring and Noticing and Being Curious. The children may also be given opportunities to use maths in other curriculum areas. We will have a maths collective worship in the afternoon where I will share the opportunity to take part in a maths competition. After school, I would like to invite you to come to the Y5 classroom where I will share ways in which you can support your child with maths at home.

Diary Dates

Today a separate document has been sent with dates for the whole term, including Christmas. Your support and partnership throughout the year is very important to us and hence why we wanted to give you as much notice as possible.

Have an enjoyable weekend and we look forward to seeing everyone for another great week of learning on Monday.
